Agency-request legislation

The Department of Labor & Industries (L&I) requested four proposals in the 2022 legislative session.

1. SB 5784 (Lovelett) – Adding psychologists for mental health only claims to the list of those who can act as an attending provider (did not pass)

Expansions in workers' comp to cover work-related mental health claims where there is not also a physical injury or illness has exposed a problem for workers with these claims: there is a shortage of clinicians willing to take on mental health-only claims who are permitted to be attending providers (APs). To address this shortage, L&I is seeking to allow doctoral-level psychologists who meet the licensing requirements established by the Department of Health (DOH) to act as the Attending Provider for mental health-only claims.

The AP is responsible to file the claim, certify time-loss, coordinate care, determine work restrictions, and recommend when a worker has reached maximum medical improvement. Current law does not include in one place a definition of "Attending Provider" but the examples of providers in this role include physicians, licensed registered advanced nurse practitioners, chiropractors and others. Excluded from the list are psychologists, even though these are often the provider treating claims such as Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and other mental health-only claims.

2. SB 5801 (Keiser) – Concerning attorney and witness fees in industrial insurance court appeals (did not pass)

Under workers' comp, whenever a party to a claim disagrees with a claim decision, they may appeal to the Board of Industrial Insurance Appeals (BIIA). If any party disagrees with the decision of the BIIA, they can appeal to the Superior Court, Court of Appeals and Supreme Court. Typically, the losing party pays their opponents' attorney fees and costs.

In workers' comp appeals, though, when a state fund employer or retrospective rating group appeals a decision of the BIIA to a higher court and loses, L&I must pay the worker's attorney fees and costs. This is true even when L&I is aligned with the winning party on the decision being appealed.

L&I is seeking to require the appealing party to pay costs and fees when they lose. This would not change the circumstances when a worker covers appeal costs, but it would require state fund employers and retro groups to cover costs when they appeal in court and lose.

3. HB 1794 (Hoff) – Requiring an employer to reimburse employee fees when a paycheck is dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment (passed)

When an employee deposits their paycheck into a bank account, they expect the funds they've earned to be available for this use. If, however, their paycheck bounces, the worker is likely to be charged Non-Sufficient Funds (NSF) fees. Most employees in this situation have little meaningful recourse. While L&I can assist the worker to collect wages that are owed if the worker files a wage complaint, the department cannot order the employer to cover costs incurred by the worker for NSF fees or penalties.

L&I is seeking authority to include in a wage complaint reimbursement to the worker for NSF fees charged the worker when their paycheck bounces.

4. SB 5604 (Keiser) – Adding references to contractor licensing laws in workers' compensation, public works, and prevailing wage statutes (did not pass)

In 2020, the legislature made major revisions to plumber contracting requirements, including creating registration requirements specifically for plumbing contractors and moving those requirements from the general contractor law (RCW 18.27) into the existing plumbing chapter (RCW 18.106). When that move was made, references in workers' comp, public works and prevailing wage laws that applied to plumbing contractors were not included, resulting in a series of references that no longer apply to plumber contractors.

This technical change would add references to the new plumbing contractor law and restore prior requirements for workers' comp, public works and prevailing wage law. A few examples of the technical changes would be to restore for plumbing contractors:

- the opportunity to shield themselves from workers' comp premiums owed by their subcontractors under prime contractor liability (RCW 51.12.070);
- the ability to rely on workers' comp coverage purchased in a reciprocal state or territory for workers performing work in Washington where the plumbing contractor is domiciled in a different state (RCW 51.12.120);
- responsibility to register as a plumbing contractor as one of the seven factors to meet independent contractor exemptions from prevailing wage (RCW 39.12.100) and workers' comp (RCW 51.08.070, RCW 51RCW 51.08.180); and
- use of liens and retainage for collection of unpaid prevailing wages (RCW 39.12.050).

Admin Services-related bills that passed the legislature:

2022 Session
Bill Number	Bill Title	Short bill description
HB 1280	Concerning greenhouse gas emissions reductions in the design of public facilities	This bill adds the lifetime cost of greenhouse gas emissions to considerations during the public building design process and adds all-electric systems as a required option for consideration. Current law requires consideration of life-time energy consumption. This bill may increase the cost and time of the design process.
